SHENANDOAH DAMAGED IN LANDING AT SAN DIEGO

Flight Delayed Until Repairs Are Made

SAN DIEGO, CALIF., October 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Due to the straining of two girders in the aft part of the Shenandoah when the big dirigible landed at the North Island Naval Air Station last night, departure of the airship for the flight to Camp Lewis, Washington, has been delayed until tomorrow or Monday morning, according to an official statement issued today.

SAN DIEGO, CALIF., October 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Because a rear cabin was smashed while the Shenandoah was being moored last night, after completing her trans-continental flight, and some repairs to her motors, the big dirigible will probably stay at her mooring until at least Monday, according to an official statement issued today.

A hole about six feet long was torn in the rear cabin of the giant dirigible according to the communication from North Island. Although this damage was described as of a minor nature, it, together with some work to be done on two of the ship's six motors, was expected to keep her here today.

SAN DIEGO, CALIF., October 11.—(By the Associated Press)—The great navy dirigible Shenandoah was moored safely to the mast at North Island early today after the first trans-continental flight by a rigid airship. Ahead of her lay a fight up the Pacific Coast to Camp Lewis, Washington, then about face for Lakeland, N. J., and the possibility later of a trip to Hawaii.

The great vessel arrived here in good order, except that one or two of her motors needed overhauling. Despite the hazardous flight over the Rocky Mountains, despite winds that swept her fragile sides near jutting peaks and a storm that pelted the huge bag of helium gas heavy with snow, the Shenandoah landed without incident and pulled through the threatening passes in the mountains at an elevation of more than 7,000 feet.

Safely past the last barriers to a successful journey, the Shenandoah's crew leaped light heartedly to the ground after she was moored at North Island and indulged in a smoke fest. Going without smoke was the hardest part of the 3,000 mile jaunt across the continent, the men said.

Admiral W. A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of naval aeronautics was the first to jump out of the Shenandoah's cabin. He was followed by Commander Zachary Lansdowne.

Referring to the proposed Honolulu trip, Admiral Moffett said the Shenandoah might be brought to the Pacific Coast this winter for the navy maneuvers and that might be taken to Honolulu.

The Shenandoah completed her westward flight at 1:40 o'clock, Pacific Coast time, making the last 100 miles at a speed of more than a mile a minute after a battle with high and snow storms and head winds in the San Jacinto Mountains.

Heading directly over the mooring mast on North Island, the Shenandoah's signal lights flashed "are you ready?" "Ready" was flashed back, and Commander Lansdowne swept the 400 foot cruiser to earth and the landing crew of blue jacks leaped to grasp the mooring lines.

All of the crew and passengers had piled in the ship when Dr. Eckenker, flight commander, called off the start because of moisture in the air and hazy weather.

Lifting tests were found unsatisfactory and Eckenker estimated the dirigible would be forced to sacrifice four tons of helium if it ascended during the heaviness of the atmosphere.

Reports from other sections of Germany indicated clear skies and moderate temperatures.

KANSAS MAY BE PUT DOWN AS ENIGMA

(By DAVID LAWRENCE)
(Copyright, 1924, By The Times Publishing Co.)

WICHITA, Kan., October 11.—William Allen White, independent candidate for governor, is standing Kansas on its ears. Right and left through the state the Emporia editor is campaigning. Drawing enormous crowds, entertaining them with his quaint philosophy and keen humor, and giving the veteran politicians of both the Republican and Democratic parties more worries than they have had in a generation about the state ticket.

With White, one plank is paramount. He is against the Ku Klux Klan. Many people don't think the Klan is much of an issue, but like Bill White and will vote for him anyway. It's a typical Kansas year. Nobody knows how the election for governor will go. White may carry the state by 50,000 and he may be snowed under. It's difficult to analyze what an electorate will do which has for the Emporia editor the intense affection that has been manifested on so many occasions.

The chances are against White's success if the mathematics of the voting can be accepted. The Democrats are strong in their support of Governor Jonathan Davis, who is running for re-election, while the Republican Republicans are sticking to Ben Paulsen. Each side tells you the election confidence that White is drawing more votes from the camp of the enemy, but there are all sorts of factors which disturb any line of reasoning. First of all, there has always been a large percentage of Catholic voters in the Democratic party. The platform of the Democratic ticket in the state denounces the Klan, but Governor Jonathan Davis has not said much about it.

Ben Paulsen, the Republican nominee for governor, was a minority selection in the primaries. He comes (Continued On Page Four)

Civilians Of Shanghai Turn On Lu's Troops

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SHANGHAI, CHINA, October 11.—(By the United Press)—Infuriated Chinese civilians today rebelled against the ruthless tactics of General Lu Jiaxiang, Hainan war lord of Kiangsu and master of Shanghai for many months.

There was severe rioting in the streets as Lu's troops attempted to restore order. Scores were injured. There were mutterings of an uprising against Lu all during the night and by daylight a great crowd gathered in front of the temple in the Chinese quarter, urging the people to take control of the city into their own hands and expel the war lord responsible for all their woes.

Lu was accused of prolonging his war with General Chi Tsi-chun, master of Chekiang, without "sense of reason" and subjecting the civilian population to all manner of indignities. Crowds surged through the streets, armed with sticks and stones, and attacked Lu's troops who have been withstanding the attacks of Chi's Chekiang armies for many weeks.

Order finally was restored after the soldiers had charged with drawn sabers.

Farm Hand Convicted Of Murdering Employer

MIDDLEBURG, Pa., Oct. 11.—Ralph Shadel, youthful farm hand, has been convicted of murder in the second degree on his eighteenth birthday. A jury after deliberating two hours last night found that he killed Harvey C. Willow, his employer, last December.

Shadel, widow of the slain man, whom Shadel said had urged him to kill his husband so she could marry him, will be placed on trial as an accessory.

Shadel welcomed the verdict as a birthday gift. His one wish, he declared, had been that his life would be spared. When the verdict was read, he smiled and then he was embraced by his parents, he burst into laughter.

A sentence of ten to twenty years in prison faces the youth. Shadel and Willow went hunting on the night of December 10. That night the youth and Mrs. Willow, who is 23 years old, visited neighbors and told them Willow had not returned.

Willow's body with the head nearly shot off, was found in a thicket on a neighboring farm.

The friendship of the boy and Mrs. Willow aroused suspicion. Shadel finally confessed that he and Mrs. Willow had fallen in love shortly after he had gone to the Willow home in March, 1923, and that he had shot his employer so they could be married.

Ordered To Pay Alimony Judge Thomas entered an order Saturday in Common Pleas court requiring Sterling Johnson to pay his wife, Minnie May charges neglect and cruelty in her suit for divorce and alimony instituted in Common Pleas court, Saturday, against William May, whom she married in May, 1923.

Plaintiff in her petition filed through Attorneys Anselma, Skelton and Tidd, complains that May has beat and abused her, declaring that he has on various occasions struck her with his fist, and with articles of household furniture, besides she says, he has threatened her life and has even attempted to carry out his threat with a revolver which he constantly packs, she avers. Furthermore, the wife asserts, that May has neglected and failed to support her and says that by reason of his refusal to pay house rent she has been compelled to move a number of times, declaring that she only has a home now as a result of her own work and labor.

The wife secured a temporary injunction restraining May from coming about her home or molesting her in any manner.

Washington Whooped, Yelled and Shouted All Night;

MANAGER HARRIS OF SENATORS WAS THE REAL HERO OF THRILLING SERIES

Defeat of the New York Giants Sets Old Town Dippy

(By Henry L. Farrell.) (United Press Staff Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, D. C., October 11.—(By the United Press)—Washington yelled, shouted, whooped and cheered all night long but still had a hoarse and hoarse voice this morning to claim to the world that their Washington Senators were the best ball team in the world.

When the Senators, champions of the American League, and a national idol beat the New York Giants, the champions of the National League in the seventh and decisive game of the series yesterday, the town turned into a college burg filled with crazy freshmen.

Nothing at New London after a Yale-Harvard boat race, nothing at New Haven or Cambridge after a Yale-Harvard game or nothing else, any place, could have approached the fervor and intensity of Washington's celebration last night when the first baseball championship of the world was knocked into the city by the rookie bat of Earl McNeely, a young man from the Pacific Coast.

Washington has a lot of good reasons to be proud of the new baseball champions of the world. They beat the New York Giants in one of the toughest series that was ever played. They out-gamed them, they out-spirited them and they out-played them.

The winning of a world's championship for the first time didn't bring much joy to the heart of Washington as did the fact that grand old Walter Johnson got the official credit for winning the seventh and decisive game of the greatest series on record.

Johnson will go on the books as the winner of the game, but there was Buck Harris who hit a homer and who knocked in two other runs with a long single and there was Muddy Ruel, who hit a double in the hard twelfth inning and scored on another two base hit by McNeely.

Along with all the other thrills in one of the greatest games of ball ever played was the tragic spectacle of Hank Gowdy, the hero of the 1914 series, one of the heroes of the 1917-1918 series, with the A. E. F. and the most popular player in the National League, losing the series and all that dough—$2,000 each—for the Giants.

Hank stepped into his mask, which he had hurled to the base line when he went after Muddy Ruel's foul in the last inning. He kicked the thing away and then stepped into it again and stumbled, dropping the ball. Ruel with his life at the bat prolonged by Hank's error, doubled and came in with the run that made the master-mind of that well known John McGraw, look not so good some more.

There was no outstanding hero in the series, but there were heroes deserving the D. S. C. of baseball.

Foremost perhaps was 28-year-old Buck Harris, who out-thought, out-figured and out-smarted that well known master-mind of baseball, John McGraw. It can be said by New Yorkers that all the brains in the world on the bench will not function where there is no pitcher in the box, but Buck Harris was as hot off for a pitcher yesterday as was McGraw.

Harris also handled his team through three games without the service of Roger Peckinpaugh, a star short-stop, backbone of the team on offense and defense and in yesterday's final game lucky did the finest job of jockeying with pitchers that ever has been seen in any series.

Harris, furthermore, practically won three games by his own efforts and labor.

Ruth Draper, Here Monday Night, Is Sure To Please With Clever Character Portrayals

(By Sydney Strange.) Ruth Draper, who comes to Portsmouth next Monday night to present her original character sketches, is sure to captivate her audience, not only with the perfection of her art, but also with the charm of her personality.

We sat in a crowded auditorium in Columbus one night two years ago, and watched Ruth Draper make an audience laugh uproariously one moment and dab their eyes fervently with moist handkerchiefs the next, for somehow an American audience hates to be caught weeping.

Mrs. Draper has added to her repertoire some we heard her last, and will, undoubtedly, give an affecting and beautiful performance Monday night.

Reserved seats for Ruth Draper's recital and for the Cincinnati Symphony Concert, November 13, and Mabel Garrison's concert, January 27, are now on sale at the Kay-Graham store, Gallia street.

Season tickets to these three artist numbers also entitle the holders to four afternoons of lecture and music, under the auspices of the Ladies' Musical.

There will be no single admissions sold, so those who plan to attend any one of the series are urged to buy their tickets Monday and enjoy the first number.

Will Use New Material For Flooring

Awarding of a revised contract for the putting down of terrazzo floors in the North Moreland school to the Chappelle-Gardner Company was the main business before the City Board of Education last night when a meeting was held in the office of Superintendent Frank Appel.

Janitors and supervisors of buildings have reported that plain concrete floors do not stand up, and in order to eliminate this complaint, terrazzo flooring is to be used in the corridors and on stairs.

A surety bond for the Columbus Heating and Ventilating Company, who have the contract for installing heating and ventilating systems in the North Moreland school was accepted.

The bond was issued through the Fidelity Insurance Company. The contractor on buildings reported that the school yard at the Lafayette building at Sciotoville has been selected as the site for a two room portable building purchased to relieve congestion in that school.

Members of B'nai B'rith were granted permission to use the high school auditorium on Monday and Tuesday evening December 1 and 2 for the production of the play "Lighnin'."

Chiropractic And Operations

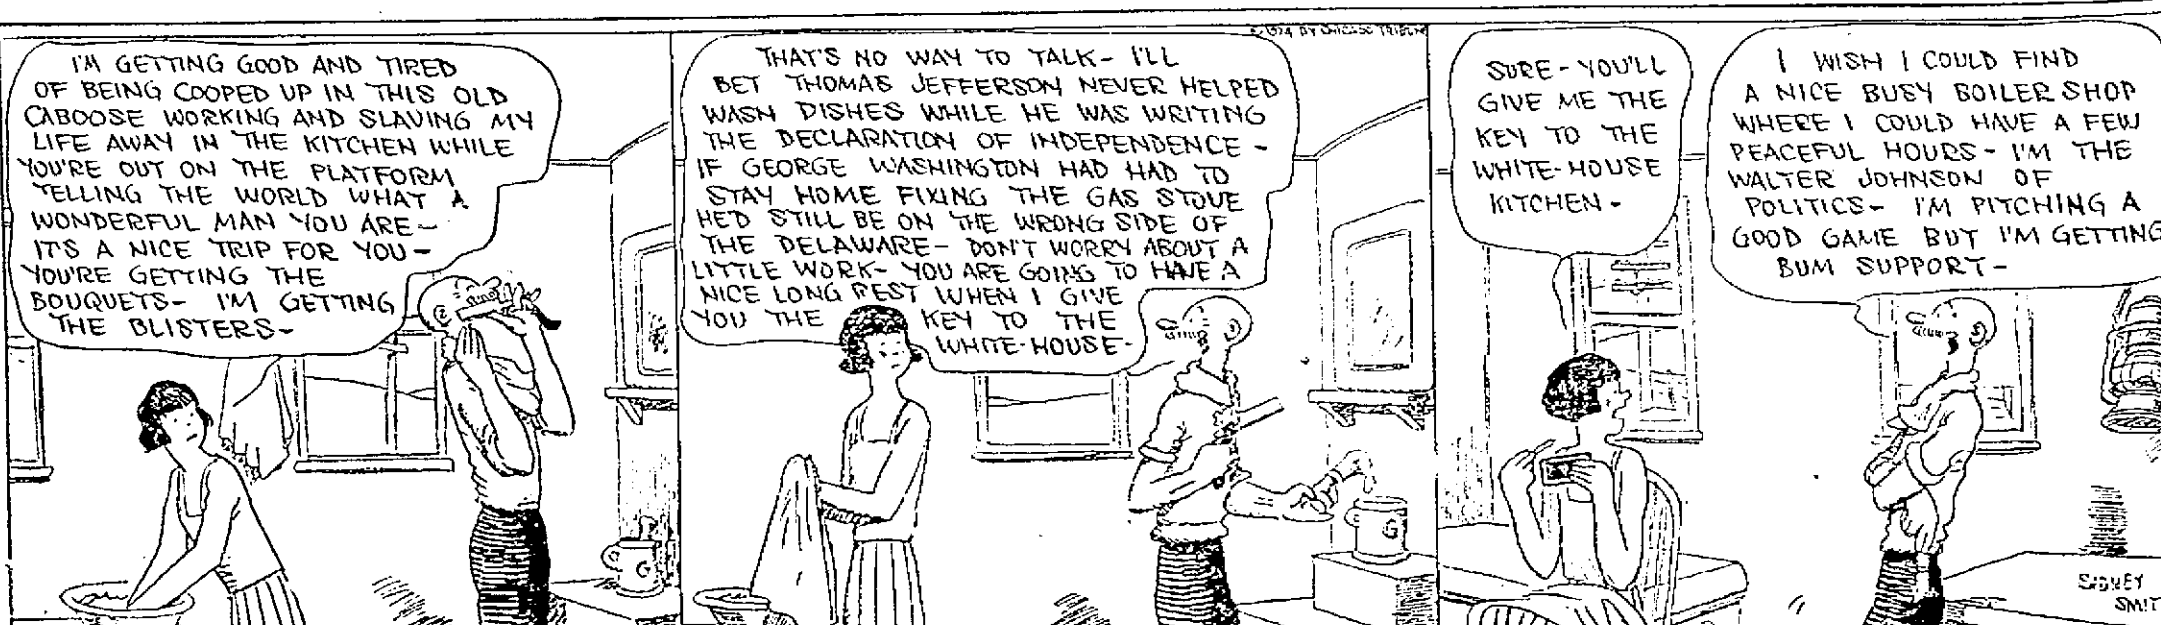

QUESTION—"Your patients tell me you claim operations are unnecessary. I have been told that my Gall Bladder must be removed, for Gall Stones. Please explain."

ANSWER—All operations are for EFFECTS, and a large number of them are absolutely useless. Chiropractic Adjustments will not only prevent them but will do more. Where operations TEMPORARILY RELIEVE the EFFECTS of disease, Adjustments PERMANENTLY ELIMINATE the CAUSE by correcting the pressure on the spinal nerves which carry Functional Energy to the organ involved. Bear this in mind, and before you submit to an operation, go to a competent Chiropractor and have a thorough Spinal Analysis made to disclose the real cause of your trouble. This will do you no harm, and it may save you the suffering and expense of an operation, to say nothing of the after effects of the operation, such as adhesions, etc. If your Chiropractor tells you you can get well without an operation, place yourself unreservedly in his care. Borah Explains Speech Made at Idaho Falls

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 11.—United States Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, today took cognizance of dispatches to the effect that in his address at Idaho Falls on October 7, he had not mentioned President Coolidge, and in a telegram to The Associated Press said that while some of his phrases might have been somewhat exaggerated, he not only had mentioned the President, but had lauded him for his courage in combatting waste.

"My reference to President Coolidge was in connection with the discussion of economy in government and extravagance and waste which has been going on in Washington," he said. "After discussing this at length I then said: 'Well, my friends, we had a test upon this question last winter. Some of us have been harping on this question for a long time but we have not been able to get much of a hearing. It was not long after Calvin Coolidge was made President of the United States until he announced he must have economy and then more economy.'

Act of Congress
"It was not long until he announced that so far as the building of bureaus was concerned, his opinion was that it ought to cease. To my mind it made one of the great issues of the 20th century and it presented a problem of government that no other President—and I do not wish to speak disparagingly of those who have gone before—had the courage to raise and stand upon. He vetoed bill after bill, popular bills, which might have drawn to him hundreds of thousands of votes, bills, which as a mere politician, he would have signed. He vetoed them because he proposed to stand between the people of this country and those who were attempting to make unjust and unnecessary demands upon the people. And whatever you may do in this campaign you cannot take that issue away from Calvin Coolidge. Those who are in Washington, Democrats, Republicans or Progressives, know how he stood on that issue, and the fact that Mr. Coolidge refused to sign bills that he considered unjust and unnecessary will always greatly rebound to his credit."

Senator Borah said the statement that he said "President Coolidge is the greatest man in political history" is somewhat of an exaggeration, "but I presume it crept through at the time the report was made, the newspapermen had a sensational report and for the most part the news was telephoned out of Idaho Falls to towns which had telephone wires."

"Understand, however, that I have not and am not now making any complaint," said the Senator in conclusion.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The LaFollette-Wheeler campaign headquarters tonight issued the following statement:

"Senator William E. Borah, in a telegram to the publicity department of the LaFollette-Wheeler campaign committee in Washington, denies that he made the statement in a speech at Idaho Falls, October 8, that 'President Coolidge is the greatest man in political history of the United States.'"

Oil Is Struck Near White Gravel

Farmers in the vicinity of White Gravel near Stockdale are greatly excited over the prospects of that section becoming a gas and oil well center.

Friday an oil well on the Viola Warren farm was "shot" and indications are that it will produce from 12 to 15 barrels daily. A well less than 300 feet away is now producing 10 barrels a day. The new well was put down by C. E. Daniel of South Webster and J. E. Thoren of Chicago. These two men have several hundred acres in that vicinity under lease.

The well was drilled to a depth of 551 feet, where "Berea grit" was struck. Eighty quarts of nitroglycerrine were used yesterday when the well was shot. It having been brought from Bremen, O., by Olin Baker, employed by the Agnew Torpedo company. He made the trip of 96 miles in a roadster, and much of the time was running through fog.

A number of people witnessed the shooting of the well, among them being G. H. Hinkle, well known oil man from Huntington.

Mother Of Mrs. Hall-Quest Tells Why Shirley Left Husband For "Other Man"

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 11.—Denying reports that her daughter was in this city, Mrs. William Knox of this city, tonight to explain today why her daughter had left her husband, Dr. Alfred W. Lawrence Hall-Quest, for the love of another man.

About a year and a half ago Mrs. Hall-Quest and Major Hall met in Cincinnati. Mrs. Knox said, and admitted:

"As soon as they knew they loved each other and realized how dangerous it was, they decided to separate and forget. But finally, Shirley had to come home to her husband. Major Hall had to go back to Cincinnati. They saw each other again. They loved each other so much that to them it was a sin for Shirley to go on living with her husband and for Major Hall to go on living with his wife."

"Together they went to Shirley's husband and to Mrs. Hall and told them the truth. They asked to be released so they could marry."

"Dr. Hall-Quest worships Shirley. Mrs. Hall loved her husband dearly. They could not give up. You'll get over it," they told Shirley and Major from the standard section of the Republican party. The progressives divided their votes. It isn't often that a progressive is eliminated in a Kansas primary. So Will White, who is a progressive of progressives, is expected to corral all the Republicans who voted for some one else than Paulen in the primary.

Kansas

Kansas has a habit of voting against things. White's vote will be large. It will be a big protest. Although he has announced his support of President Coolidge, there are many observers who feel that if Kansas turns upside down this year and elects William Allen White, Mr. Coolidge may be found on the same ballot to have lost the state.

With a mixed-up situation in which very few voters are really stating their preferences and with a LaFollette vote by no means inconsiderable, Kansas may well be put down as an enigma this year.

Unquestionably the race for governor is overshadowing the contest for the electoral vote of the state. All sorts of combinations are to be found on canvassing the voters. There are some who say they will vote for President Coolidge, William Allen White and the Democratic representative in congress from this district—William A. Ayers. Others are voting for LaFollette for president, Jonathan Davis for governor, and former Senator Chester Long the Republican conservative, who is contesting for Mr. Ayers' seat.

Under those circumstances, experienced politicians who know Kansas and shuffling their shingles. Anything may happen—that's Kansas.

There's a somewhat different viewpoint here to be sure, that is to be found in Topeka. Labor is more vocal here and there is more LaFollette talk than is heard elsewhere. William Allen White has the endorsement of most of the newspapers in Kansas and those that are not out-and-out supporters are very friendly in their attitude. So far as the newspapers are concerned, they are printing White's speeches fully and they no longer regard his candidacy as a joke. He is a symbol of protest now and perhaps if he had more time so as to campaign in every county of the state he would win hands down, as it is the governorship that is stirring the state.

Kansas, while not affirmatively enthusiastic for President Coolidge, nevertheless shows little hostility to him. Here in Wichita the prevailing opinion among the well-informed men who can subordinate their partisanship in a fair analysis of the situation is that Mr. Coolidge will carry the state.

Heard Son Win Game Over the Radio

ALABAMA, Calif., Oct. 11.—(By United Press.)—An aged couple hovered over a home radio set here yesterday and breathlessly listened to the story of the greatest ball game in history.

"Twelfth inning. McNelly at bat. Doubled. Ruel scoring and Washington won."

W. C. McNelly and his wife had "seen" their boy win that baseball game.

Real Interest In The Big Series

COLUMBUS, O., October 11.—(By the United Press.)—The victory of the Senators over the Giants in the deciding game of the World Series yesterday was acclaimed throughout Ohio by crowds outside newspaper offices almost as vociferously as at Griffith Stadium.

Reports reaching the United Press today from its clients in Ohio indicated there was more real interest in the last thrilling game than in any other baseball series in recent years.

The United Press wire from the playing diamond clicked out the play-by-play report so rapidly that often it was idle while Walter Johnson, Senator pitcher, "wound up."

One of the most unique newspaper baseball parties in the state was staged by the Chillicothe News-Advertiser which provided seats for a crowd of 1,000 fans during the last game. The plays were magnified from a second-story window as they came in over the printer's automatic United Press printer wire.

When the game developed a tie and looked like it might go until dark, the News-Advertiser sent rider and doughnuts out to the crowd.

Mr. Heinisch Knocked Down By Auto

George Heinisch, 701 Harvard street, left as he started across the street. A young man who gave his name as William Hall, Third street, was driving west on Fourth in a Ford machine and could not stop in time to prevent the accident. Both assumed some responsibility for the accident, the young man claiming he was going faster than usual as he was due to appear at the court house as a witness while Mr. Heinisch claimed he was at fault for not looking to his left.

Hall insisted on taking care of Mr. Heinisch who had the young man take him to the office of Dr. L. G. Locke, who found he has escaped broken bones. The front fender struck Mr. Heinisch on the side of his left leg and in falling his foot was caught under the wheel. In trying to jerk the foot away he twisted it to his left.

Heinisch was taken to the hospital where he is now recovering from the effects of a severe attack of pneumonia poisoning. She became ill Thursday night and for a time her condition was quite serious.

Thieves Visit New Service Drug Store

The police today are looking for burglars who some time last night entered the new Service drug store, Fourth and Chillicothe streets, and made away with $50 in change from three cash registers. The invaders, who gained entrance to the establishment, by cutting the glass out of a rear door and crawled through the opening, also carried away several boxes of fine candy.

The robbery was reported to the police this morning when it was discovered by George McMahon, the manager.

O. S. U. Invades Iowa

IOWA FIELD, IOWA CITY, IOWA, October 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Ohio State football team invaded Iowa field for the first time in its history today and clashed with the University of Iowa eleven. It was the only game in the western conference scheduled, in which two conference eleven lined up against one another.

A light wind was blowing from the southeast, but it was hardly perceptible at the bottom of the stadium. Because of the nature of the structure, only a north wind would be likely to affect the playing. The day was quite warm.

Just before the game there was little over confidence in either camp, and although the Iowa team outwitted the Buckeyes ten points to the man, the Ohio invader was hoping to average the defense of 1922 and 1923 with the Hawkeyes equally insistent that it should be three winners straight. More than 25,000 tickets were sold for the game, the athletics announced.

At the last moment Coach Jack Wolfe, of Ohio, decided to put in Clark at left half in place of Hunt who suffered an injury a few days ago. This was looked upon as a handicap for the Buckeyes.

A great roar swept over the stadium as the Ohio team came out, a roar mingled with some humor, for the Buckeyes were practically all six-footers and looked like a powerful aggregation from the stands.

Ohio State appeared able to hold Iowa's heavy team and there was no scoring in the first quarter.

La Follette Would "Pay Cost of War Ase We Go," He Declares In Address In Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Oct. 11.—Outlining in an address here last night the foreign policy he would pursue if elected president, Senator Robert M. La Follette declared he was not an advocate of peace at any price, but would repel the "aggressive acts of any power that attempted to seize our territory or imperil our national life or institutions."

"The assumption underlying all of our present diplomatic relations," he asserted, "is one of fear, of hate, of war."

Reverting to the World War, the independent presidential candidate, said he was convinced it was not a war of unprovoked aggression by one nation, but was a struggle "which had its birth in secret diplomacy, in national forces kept alive by military caste and most of all by private munition makers and a capitalist press in all of the great powers."

"I am convinced," he continued, "that the diplomacy, the entanglements and the imperialistic aggressions of the past four years may involve us in another war. I am equally convinced that a nation as devoted to promotion of peace as the powers that rule America today are devoted to the things that bring on war, can establish world confidence and maintain peace by its fair dealing."

"I am further convinced that we can have liberty at home only under such aggressive peace making policy. Foreign wars destroy liberty at home. They leave the state prostrate to private exploitation. The very necessities of the situation invite the destruction of civil liberties, the development of autocratic power and the subdivision of free principles in the lust of conquest or the desire for victory."

Enumerating in detail the principles on which he stands "to end war and promote peaceful relations with other people and to make permanent our liberties at home," the Wisconsin senator declared he would do away with secret diplomacy, "would end all profit from war should it forced upon the United States, and would not lay the heritage of debt on subsequent generations, but would pay the cost of war as we go."

Coolidge Congratulates Team on Winning Series; Johnson Praised by Nation's President

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—President Coolidge immediately after returning to the White House from the final game of the world series, issued the following statement:

"Of course, I am not speaking as an expert or as a historian on baseball, but I do not recollect a more exciting world's series than that which was fought this afternoon. The championship was not won until the 12th inning of the last game. This shows how evenly the teams were matched. I have only the heartiest of praise to bestow upon the individual players of both teams. Naturally, in Washington, we were pleased to see Walter Johnson finish the game pitching for our home team, and make a hit in the last inning that helped win the series. It has to be kept in mind that while he was not successful in the two games he pitched, that it was his skill that had won the pennant and put Washington into the world's series. Everyone was pleased to see him come back at the close of the last game."

The three contests which I witnessed maintained throughout a high degree of skill and every evidence of high class sportsmanship that will bring to every observer an increased respect for the confidence in our national game. It would be difficult to conceive a finer example of true sport."

On the same day the hearing of John Payne of McDermott charged with a similar offense, will be held.

Keep Looking Young

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a yellow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—plagues—bilious trouble in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sicknesses come from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about natural purgation which should be enjoyed by taking up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.—Advertisement.

"Goose" Goslin, whose record of three home runs, tied the mark established by Ruth last season, was the leading slugger with a total of 21 bases on 11 hits. Harris was close behind with 17, including two homers, while Frisch led the Giants with 16 total bases on ten hits. Frisch had the most two baggers, four, and he and Terry got the only triples of the series. Sam Rice was the leading base stealer with two thefts.

Although their fielding average was not as good as the Giants, the Senators completed ten double plays against four for their opponents.

Tom Zachary, Washington southpaw, was the only pitcher to win more than one game. Bentley, of the Giants and Walter Johnson of the Senators, the iron-men of the series, each won one and lost two. Marberry figured in four games, three of which he served in a relief capacity.

UNEVEN PRICE MOVEMENTS CHARACTERIZE THE WEEK'S ACTIVITIES ON THE STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Uneven price movements continued to characterize this week's stock market, day to day fluctuations as a rule being narrow and irregular. Another "political scare" Friday afternoon brought about a rather sharp reaction in some of the popular issues, indicating the market's nervousness over election uncertainties. Trading was in reduced volume, the Jewish religious holidays, the approaching holiday on Monday and the inconclusive nature of the trend of business in many lines.

Notwithstanding the promising prospects for the success of the new loan, prices were offered down steadily in the early dealings, with some of yesterday's week features being hammered freely. S. S. Kresge dropped ten points to 415, American Water Works, General Electric fell 2 1/2, Woolworth 2, and recessions of 1 to 1 1/2 points occurred in American Can, Baldwin, American Sugar, Colorado Fuel, U. S. Steel, Iron Pipe, Mack Truck, Davidson, Crutcher Steel and Tassan, Kinney, Air Reduction and the Commercial Solvents shares. Reading was the weakest of the railroads with some pressure also against Lehigh Valley.

Wheat rallies; corn and oats hold steady. Bond prices show firm tone; foreign issues display slight change.

Them losing ground. Mixed changes took place in the motors, establishments of new highs by Jordan, General Motors 7 per cent preferred, Maxwell B and Packard preferred being offset by new lows touched by Chrysler and General Motors common. Political disturbances in Cuba and disappointment over the earnings of some of the producing companies was blamed for the selling of some of the sugar shares. Tobacco was firm.

A bad break in the St. Paul issues, which sold at their lowest prices of the year, was the feature of the railroad group. Heaviness of the St. Pauls revived doubts over the road's ability to arrange the refunding of its heavy maturities next year without reorganization or the scaling down of capital. Illinois Central lost ground in response to a new stock offering and an adverse court decision in Illinois.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Stock prices continued to point downward today. While losses of a point or more were quite numerous, selling orders did not appear to be as urgent as those in yesterday's session. Merchandising, public utilities, metal and sugar issues bore the brunt of the selling which originated largely with professional traders. Railroad shares were sluggish, Nickel Plate falling 2 1/2 points. General Electric was well supported, moving up more than 3 points and bringing about rallying tendencies in other quarters in the late dealings. The closing was heavy. Sales approximated 400,000 shares.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Reactionary tendencies prevailed at the opening of today's stock market, the sharp reaction late yesterday bringing about further selling for both accounts overnight. National Lead dropped a point and American Can, Baldwin, American Water Works and other popular industrials yielded fractionally.

Wheat Rallies; Corn And Oats Hold Steady

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK MARKETS

Stocks firm; General Electric strongly supported. Bonds firm; St. Pauls again rally. Foreign exchange irregular; sterling holds steady. Cotton lower; spot houses selling. Sugar featureless. Coffee firmer; firm Brazil cables.

CHICAGO MARKETS

Wheat easy; disappointing export demand. Corn barely steady; good weather. Cattle mostly higher. Hogs unchanged; narrow demand.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Although wheat prices showed a decline today the market soon scored a brisk rally. Frosts in Argentina have been reported in the northern districts of Argentina where the crop is at a stage which makes frost however light, very undesirable. After opening 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 lower, December 1.44 to 1.44 1/2 and May 1.43 1/2 to 1.43 1/2, the market recovered to the same as yesterday's finish or above.

Subsequently buyers became scarce and as a result of re-offerings the market broke sharply, as much as 3/4 c in some cases.

Fine weather kept corn and oats relatively steady. Corn opening figures, which ranged from 1/4 to 1 1/4 c lower, December 1.10 1/2 to 1.11 c, were followed by a quick upturn but then by another sag.

The close was steady at the same as yesterday's finish to 1 1/2 c lower, December 1.11 1/2 to 1.12 c.

Oats started at 1/4 to 3/4 c off, December 54 1/2 to 54 1/2 c, later the market receded a little more.

Provisions averaged somewhat higher, in line with hog values.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

The Annual Empire Community fair will be held for two days and nights, October 23 and 24th. This fair has grown to the proportions that justify it to rank with any similar fair of its kind in the state, this being the fifth year with preparations for larger exhibits and more attractions than in former years. Lawrence Kaufman, former county agricultural agent of Jackson county, now with the livestock extension department of the Ohio State University, will judge the livestock exhibits. County Agent R. W. Wallace, of Chillicothe, will judge the fruit displays, and perhaps N. W. Gilmer of the vegetable gardening division of the Ohio State University will judge the vegetable exhibits. It is planned to add to the awarding of the premiums, a discussion of the merits and defects of all the displays, which will add to this feature of the fair an educational value that the officials hope will be of considerable interest to those attending. A program of amusement has been arranged for the entire duration of the fair. This annual gathering is held at the Grange Hall on the Powellville road west of Wheelersburg. Fred Mootz, of Franklin Furnace, is president, and Oscar Oakes, of the same community, is secretary. Considerable prize money will be awarded for exhibits in livestock, fruit, vegetables, grain, poultry, culinary displays and club work. Ohio hens now have a calendar dedicated to them. It will be issued from the Ohio State University about November 1 to a selected group of poultrymen in each of the Ohio counties that have a county agent. In effect the calendar with its large sheet for each month of the year, is a new and simple way to record the farm flock's egg production. The heavy cardboard page for each month carries at the top a photograph demonstrating some approved poultry practice, and below that a form for daily egg records and a few short timely, practical paragraphs of information for poultrymen. That the producer may know whether or not his flock is producing up to a reasonable standard for the season, the record form for each month gives the standard egg production as adopted by the poultry department at the state university. Two postcards attached at the bottom of each sheet of the calendar, ask for the egg production of the flock and the average per hen for month, percent of mortality, and reasons for such mortality. One of these cards goes to the county agent; the other to the poultry extension department at the university for compilation and publication. The distribution of 5,000 of these calendars will be left to the county agents of the state. None will be sent directly from the university to the poultrymen. Because of the limited number allowed to each county, the first requests to the county agents will be the fortunate ones.

Trumbull wheat, which received its first tryout in this county last year, has established itself so firmly with the wheat growers, that there is a great demand for seed, according to reports coming in from the wheat-raising sections of the county. This wheat is of recent introduction into Ohio, but after test plots at the Ohio Experiment farm its merits were proved on the wheat growers with the result that some of the highest productions in the state were established in this variety last season. One of the high production records reported in this county was on the John Messer farm, near Scottdale, with 29 bushels an acre grown from Trumbull certified seed. Reported seedlings over the country indicate that much of the acreage this fall will be of this variety. The Farm Bureau has the names of a number of farmers from whom Trumbull wheat may be secured. Receiving its first trial in a year of subnormal wheat production, Scottdale county farmers are convinced that it is one of the better producers for this section of the state.

Entertainment Pleases
Over 100 persons attended the entertainment presented in Lucasville community hall last night by health project leaders in that community. A feature of the program was a clever playlet that had been written by the leaders, Mrs. J. W. Spelges, Mrs. Gaylord Preston and Mrs. Alice Woodwell. A recitation by Miss Jessie Vanhouse and a talk by Miss Wanda Przyski completed the program.

Leaders To Confer
A leaders conference will be held at the Boys' Department Terminal, Y. M. C. A., Sunday, Oct. 12th, 3 p. m. All other boys who take an interest in boys work are invited to be present.

Gas Cheaper In Wellston
Gasoline hit a new low level in Wellston yesterday when several owners of filling stations cut the price to 12 cents a gallon. Wellston has had the cheapest "gas" of any city in the state for months.

Miami Vs. Mt. Union
OXFORD, Oct. 11.—The Miami football squad met Mt. Union here today in the first of the conference contest of the season.
The two teams have met eight times since 1914 and seven of the contests have been victories for Miami.

Feast of Succoth Begins Sunday Evening

The parents of all Jewish children, who attend the Sabbath school, are requested to send these children to the Temple at 9:30 Sunday morning. This includes those who will attend the post-conference class.
The annual meeting of the congregation will be held in the basement of the Temple at 2 p. m. Sunday and all members are urged to be present as business of utmost importance will come before the meeting.
On Sunday evening the Feast of Succoth begins, with services at the Temple at half past seven and again at half past nine on Monday morning. The public is cordially invited to attend.

ATTRACTIONS OF PROFESSIONS

It may or may not be well that "law and medicine, like the ministry, attract fewer new recruits than formerly," as is declared by an authority. Naturally if these professions have become so overcrowded that they yield smaller average rewards than in years gone by, prudent youths will stay out of them. It may be that overcrowding is responsible for certain evils that are alleged to have crept into the legal and medical professions, but this is by no means proven. One commentator thinks that "ambulance chasing, contingent fee damage and will suits and the like" denote a surplus of lawyers, while "dope" selling and whisky prescription writing are chargeable to an over-plus of physicians. But none of these evils, or others comparable to them, are new. There have been unscrupulous lawyers and doctors in all ages, and it can be asserted with confidence that they will be present when the last trump is sounded.

Instead of overcrowding of the older professions being responsible for the reported scarcity of recruits, probably, the true reason is to be found in the expansion of opportunity, the greater choice of professions which the young man of today has. But a couple of generations back divinity, law, medicine and arms made up the sum of professions that offered attractions to youth. Now, however, with the development of the technical sciences there is a virtually unlimited field of choice, and the rewards of the moderately successful in the newer lines are far greater than those which a lifetime came to none but toponotchers in the learned branches of activity.

The engineering professions make an appeal to imagination that the others cannot. Most of the technical sciences are in their infancy. There is the lure of adventure in the study and practice of chemistry, electricity and the like. Mechanical engineering draws and sends its capable practitioners to all parts of the world, for one thing. That appeals to youth. There really appears no mystery about the falling off of numbers of law and medical students if there is a falling off.

INCOME AND MARRIAGE

HERE now is a proposition for legislation, sponsored by a women's organization, compelling a man about to marry to prove his economic standing and his mental capacity first, and requiring a would-be bride to show that she could support herself and her children if her husband died. Both are excellent ideas. The man who marries ought to be able to support a family, and a widow with young children on her hands who can take care of herself and them without assistance has a position of independence which is worth while. But why laws on the subject? Do we really need any more laws of any sort?

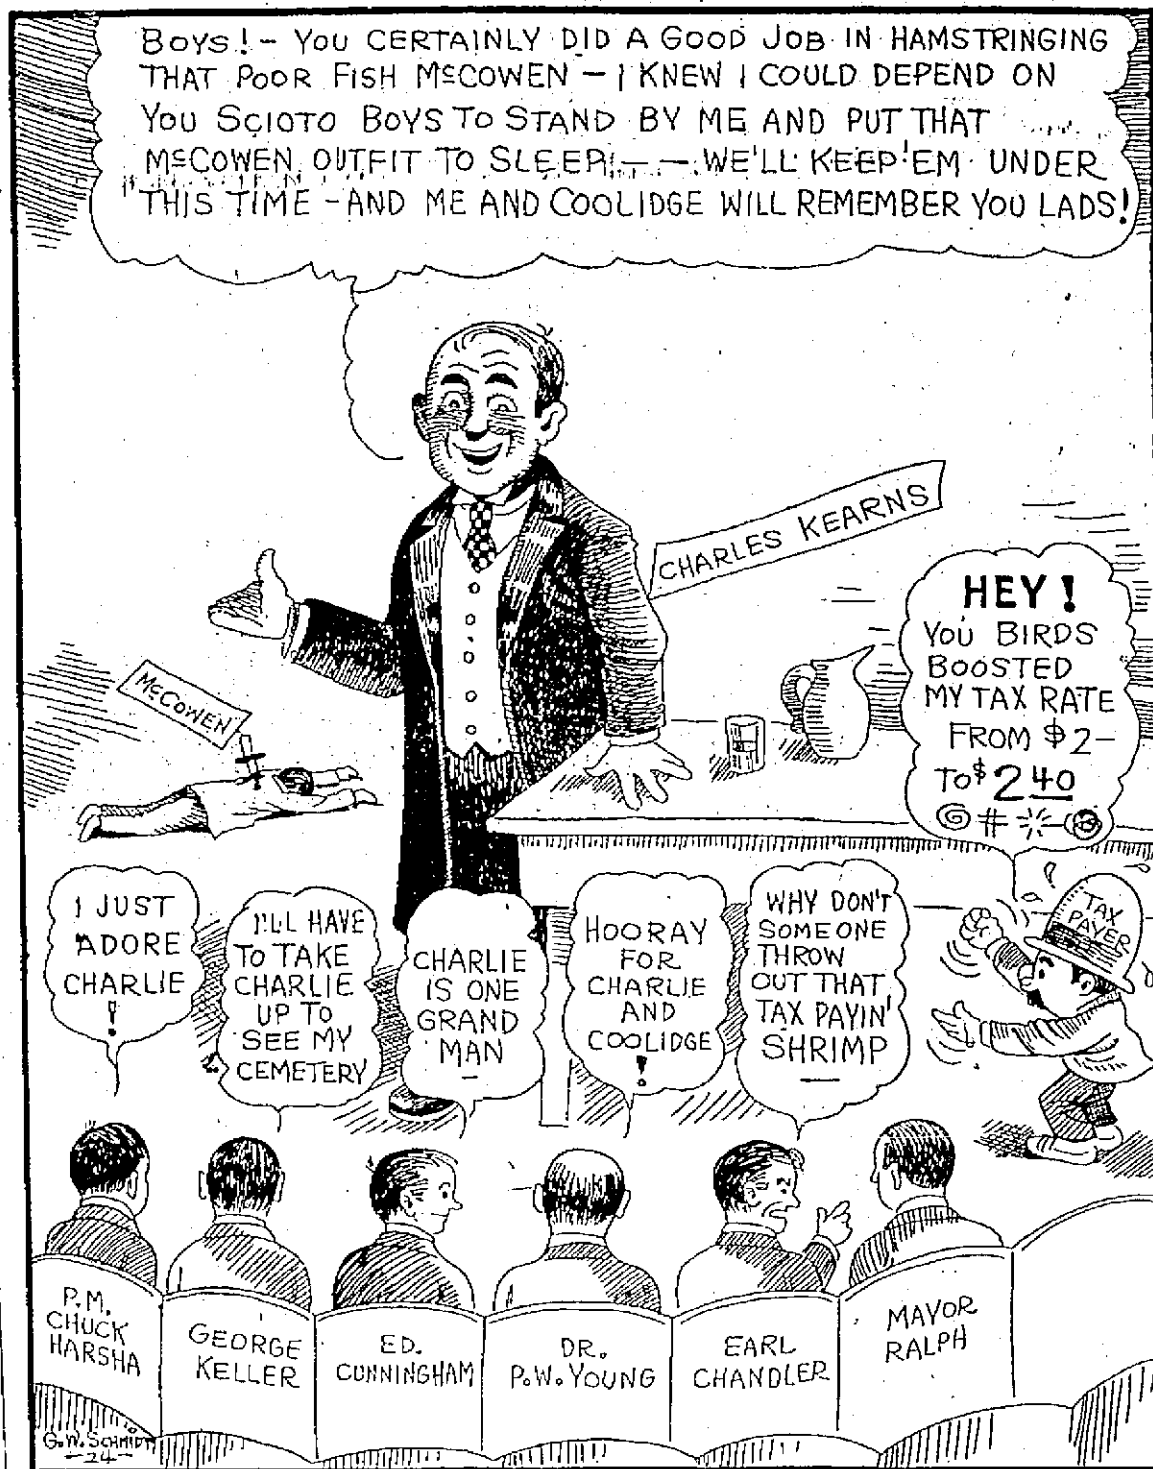

Such matters may fairly be left to the individual. No doubt a man ought not to marry recklessly. But he might make a very good husband and father though he took financial chances when he married and could not measure up to some legislative standard of income. As for women, the number of them who are unable to earn their own living if called upon to do so is comparatively small in these days.

ABOUT GROWING OLD

THE psychologist who said the other day that old age and death is a mere matter of psychology, seems to be skipping about the edge of sophistry. To claim full credit for modern knowledge which has lengthened human life five years in two generations is one thing, but to reach from that for a logical conclusion that life may be prolonged indefinitely by mere psychological effort is something different. This would be comforting to those who desire to live to be 200 years old, but before men reach that age other knowledge than merely how to wish for prolonged existence will be necessary.

To fix an arithmetical program by which human life is to be lengthened according to the ratio of the first modern steps is to invite disappointment. Some time, possibly, men may live to be much older than in this generation, but when that time arrives human beings will be found living as well as thinking in a manner far from the habits of 1924. Physical death and old age is something more than a simple matter of psychology, at least in man's present state of knowledge.

CHARLIE JOLLIES THE BOYS

A trade paper announces that gray is the popular color for young men's street wear. On the campus they may make their choice from the rainbow.

According to a Berlin professor January 1 will mark the end of the bobbed hair craze. But Berlin professors are not infallible and women do not go to Germany for styles.

When eminent lawyers disagree one wonders why foreigners seeking citizenship are urged to read and inwardly digest the constitution as a preliminary to naturalization.

Contradicting the impression that nobody saves time by holding the gas pedal down when motoring toward a railroad crossing, it is shown that such speeders reach the morgue several years sooner than they otherwise might.

Doc Koko's KOLUM

Loneliness
Day, in melting purple dying,
Blossoms all around me sighing,
Fragrance from the lilies straying,
Zephyr, with my ripples playing;
Yet but waken my distress;
I am sick of loneliness.

Absent still? Ah, come and bless me!
Let those eyes again caress thee;
Once, in caution, I could fly thee;
Now, I nothing could deny thee;
In a look if death there be,
Come and I will gaze on thee!
—Marla Brooks.

"How soon can I get a street car?" asked the stranger of the native in one of the suburbs where the trolley service is something of a myth.
"Himn," meditated the native scrutinizing the tracks. "Looks like ye jest missed one."
"How can you tell?"
"The tall weeds between the tracks are all flattened out."

It Sounds Dangerous
Simmons had returned from his vacation.
"I certainly enjoyed the husking-bees," he said to a friend. "Were you ever in the country during the season of husking-bees?"
"Husking-bees?" exclaimed the girl, "why, of course not! How do you husk a bee, anyway, Mr. Simmons?"

Blackstone: "Did you notice the mute appeal in that beautiful girl's eyes?"
Webster: "Yes; she's a dumb bell, all right."

Here, fido!

The hotel manager hopped on a bellhop for whistling in the lobby. "Don't you know it's against the rules for an employee to whistle while on duty?" he demanded sternly.

"Ain't whistling, sir," protested the boy. "I'm pagin Mrs. Blank's dog."

"Why, Willie," said the teacher, in a pained voice, "Have you been fighting again? Didn't you learn that when you are struck on one cheek you ought to turn the other one to the striker?"

"Yes, sir," agreed Willie, "but he hit me on the nose, and I've only got one."

Uptown: "I didn't look like a hero, but he says he saved a man's life during the war. I wonder how he did it."
Downtown: "Dodged the draft, I presume."

"What did you do in the war?" "Oh, I stayed at home and worked. The Army wouldn't have me because of fallen arches."
"Why don't you have them fixed?"
"Don't want to, I'm saving them for the next war."

NEW YORK DAY-BY-DAY

BY O. C. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The sophists of New York youngsters is amazing to those of us who in our youth sat like "little gentlemen" on a parlor chair—seen but not heard—when company came. We don't know how to act in their presence these days.

Shyness among them is extinct. Youngsters of 8 and 10 discuss grown-up topics as casually as a fish takes to water. A nurse in Central Park pointed out a little shelter house along one of the by-paths. "Is it not beautiful?" she asked.

Her young charge immediately replied: "It is a hum reproduction of the 'Petit Trianon' at Versailles." And he went back to sucking his lollipop. It is one of the social graces to have a 12 or 14 year old daughter receive at afternoon tea.

The great elders with the nonchalant of an experienced hostess. There are no abashed giggles or awkward pauses. Some of them seem able to pick out the stupid and label the clever. And they make those ill at ease feel perfectly at home.

One finds boys in short pants who have roamed the world. They can discuss Rome, London, Cairo and Paris intelligently. They have seen the latest plays and read the most talked about books of the day. There is a ghastly pertinency about them. The boys of the New Age is better. Yet many of us cannot help feeling sorry for youngsters who have been denied the pleasures of going barefoot, skinning the cat, playing in muddy hay-mows, building bon-fires and exploring the topmost branches of trees.

The other day a neighbor's boy of 12 departed alone for San Francisco to meet his parents returning from the Orient. He engaged his drawing room and attended to all details. At the same age I traveled from St. Louis to Kansas City. I was tagged and put in charge of the conductor and never moved in my life.

Gibbons Is Winner
BELLARE, Oct. 11.—Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul heavyweight, won a technical knockout over Wild Bill Reed, of Columbus, here tonight, the referee stopping the scheduled ten round bout in the third round after Reed had been floored six times.

scat! If it had been for the train butcher's glass, revolver filled with peppermint drops, I think I would have died of loneliness.

It is told of two New York street sweepers who were discussing a co-worker who had gone the way of all flesh.

"He swept a clean street," declared one.

"Yes," replied the other, "but between you and me he was a little weak around fire plugs."

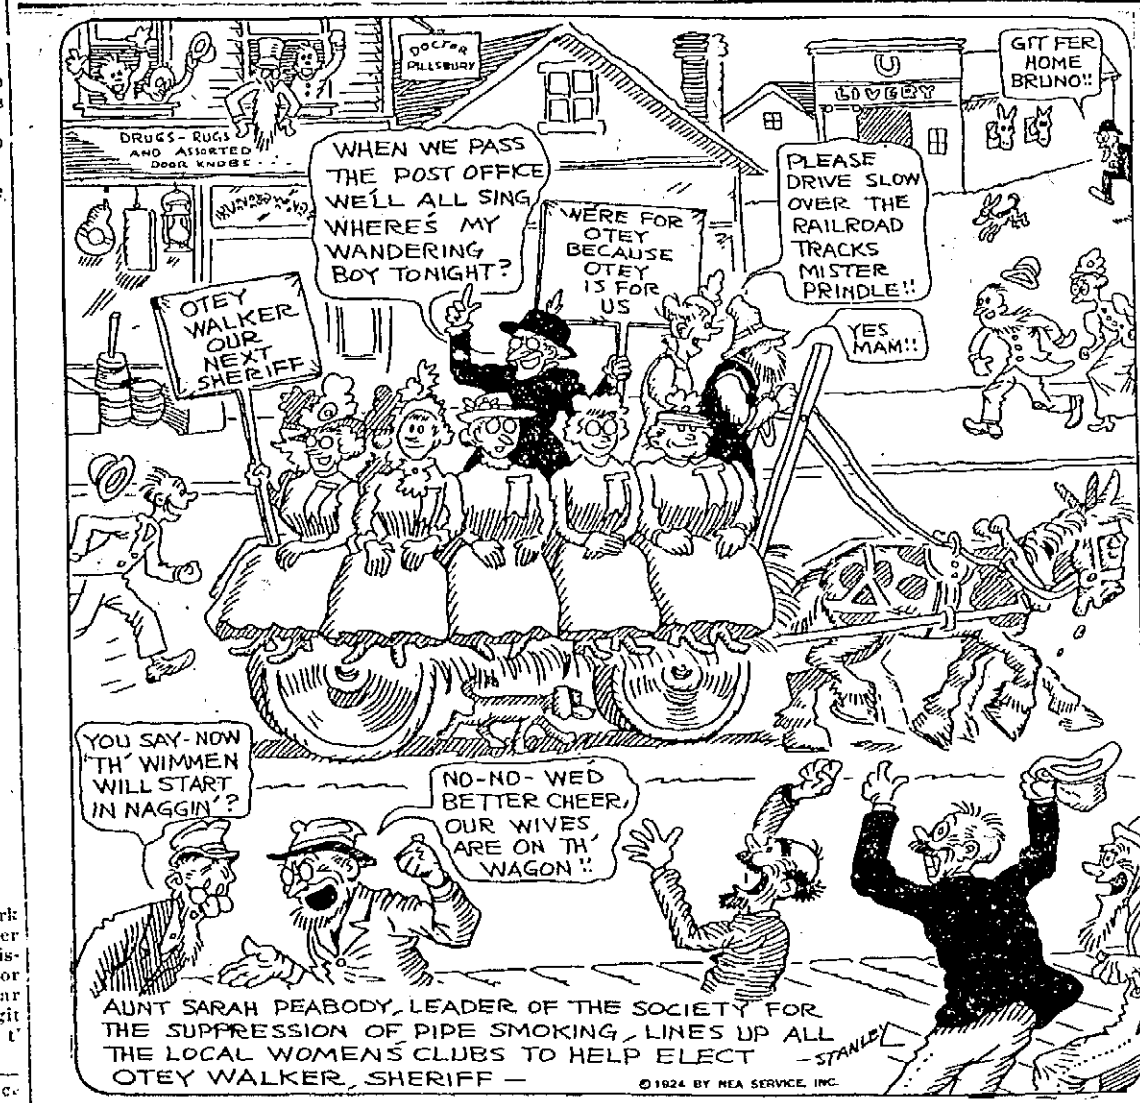

New York street sweepers, by the way, are the only men who adhere to the comic paper tradition of smoking a pipe upside down. Nearly all who smoke pipes follow this custom. Also they are the only people who pay no attention to traffic dangers. They wield brushes in perfect oblivion to darting motors. They put the burden of safety on the drivers and as a consequence the casualties among them is nil.

One of those impeccable hotels on the Avenue attempted as adroitly as possible to caution a western patron against wearing cow-bows around the foyer. It was intimated the dereliction in dress was an affront to the refined atmosphere of the place. The patron accepted the warning but three days later rode on the elevator with an assistant manager who was wearing the barbershop and in sandals and the lounge robe and was sockless. The west-erner's wife was with him. He said nothing. He merely grabbed him by the neck and knocked his head against the side of the elevator. All of which shows slight reason is returning to a world askew.

To most of us well polished boys are more pleasing to the eye than the flapping bell-bottomed trousers now worn. And every day in every way they are growing wilder and wilder. Copyrighted, 1924, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.
